

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
APRIL 11, 2018

CONTACTS: Steve Hurlbert / Communications Director
Shurlbert@winterparkresort.com / 970-726-1573

WINTER PARK'S MARY JANE TO REMAIN OPEN TO MAY 6

Photo courtesy: Carl Frey / Winter Park Resort

WINTER PARK, Colo. – Thanks to over 280” of snow this season, 40” of which has come this month alone, Winter Park Resort’s iconic Mary Jane will remain open two extra weeks, with closing now slated for Sunday, May 6. Lifts and trails on the Winter Park side will still close on the originally scheduled closing weekend of April 21-22 with Spring Splash still scheduled for Sunday, April 22.

Defying the perception that 2017-18 has been a bad snow year, this will be the third consecutive season that Mary Jane’s season has been extended, and the second time in three years the season has lasted into May. It all adds up to two extra weeks to enjoy Mary Jane’s world-famous moguls, tree-skiing, and C-Lot parties. Exact available lifts and terrain will be released closer to the extension.

Mary Jane joins Loveland and Arapahoe Basin as the only areas in the entire state of Colorado that will be open into May.

For more information please visit: www.winterparkresort.com.

ABOUT WINTER PARK RESORT

Located just 67 miles from Denver, Winter Park Resort is Colorado’s longest continually-operated ski resort, with over 3,000 acres of world-class terrain spread out over seven unique territories that is now accessible via train thanks to Winter Park Express train service from Denver. Nestled along the Continental Divide, Winter Park boasts over 325” of annual snowfall, setting up perfect conditions for exploring miles of cruising groomers, six terrain parks, bumps, steeps, trees, and most definitely deeps. Winter Park is also the proud home to the renowned National Sports Center for the Disabled (NSCD). For more information, please visit www.winterparkresort.com.

